1. By the town of Zagorsk (56-19N, 38-03E) the main Moscow - Yaroslavl road crosses the railway line and continues parallel with it but on the eastern side. Two kilometers from Zagorsk on this main road is a large monastery with a high tower visible from a long distance. Four kilometers farther to the north-east and on the right-hand side of the main road is a large factory producing military optical instruments; four kilometers from this point the road branches and the right-hand fork goes in the direction of Aleksandrov (56-24N, 38-45E). Beside the left-hand fork in the road is an airfield with some hangars. Ten kilometers north-east of this point the road again branches and the western fork leads directly into a wood. Situated in this wood about three or four kilometers from the fork is a guided missile factory which is locally referred to as "Rocket Factory No. 39".
2. The ordinary workmen of this factory are persons who have been condemned to life-long hard labor for political offences; they are therefore completely cut off from the outside world.
3. When a convoy of trucks bringing raw material to the factory arrives, it is met just beyond the fork from the main road by a company of MVD personnel, who take over the trucks and drive them to the factory itself. The original drivers of the trucks go to a neighboring village and wait until the trucks are returned to them empty some hours later.
